

Poems to Heal the Healer

The 12 Chiron Signs

with Joyce Mason

When Chiron first entered Pisces in April 2010, Joyce Mason—both a long-time astrologer and poet—noticed a lyrical trend. Astrology bloggers and their readers were waxing poetic. Posts or comments on Chiron in Pisces contained poems. Her brain shot into aha pyrotechnics! Within a week, she gave birth to a new e-book, Poems to Heal the Healer: The 12 Chiron Signs.

This presentation offers a both a perspective on Chiron in Pisces, Chiron's current sign, and a poetry reading of the 12 Chiron poems, one for each sign—and lots of discussion. Each poem is a capsule of the chronic pain those Chiron signs experience and how these individuals break through it and give back in their own zodiacal style.

You'll learn about the ancient rhapsodes who spoke poetry as a prescription for healing and why the creative arts are likely to flourish during Chiron in Pisces—a time when integration and integrity are on the front burner.

People can only heal themselves. A healer is someone who sets up an environment or energy that invites and supports the healing process.

Joyce Mason has consulted, written, and spoken on astrology for three decades. In the '90s she edited the international newsletter Chironicles, presented at UAC, and created the Chironic Convergence, a "shareshop" near Chiron's mythical Greek homeland. Recently, she has published two e-books on Chiron and over 100 multi-topic articles on her popular blog, The Radical Virgo. She's the President and CEO (Catalyst, Enthusiast, and Organizer) of Sacramento Area Astrologers, a newly forming chapter of NCGR.
